CROWD WAS HAPPY AT EAGLE OFFICE

When Final Announcement Was Made That Wilson Was Elected War Whoops Went Up.

The "faithful few," which had declined to a still smaller number, were finally repaid for their efforts last night just a few minutes before midnight when the announcement was made that "Wilson had been re-elected."

Many amusing things happened. The crowd as a whole was a jolly good bunch, but with the early returns coming in very slowly every one got tired and wanted to go home, but efforts of County Surveyor Horace Jones and others, they were, at least a small number, induced to tarry until the "dope" began to arrive and within 45 minutes after the wires began to buzz the result was known. By this time the crowd began to swell, the glorious news spread like wildfire and several dignified and substantial citizens got out of bed, dressed and came down town. Through the efforts of City Engineer A. S. Adams the great "White Way" in the heavenly city of Bryan was illuminated to the fullest extent. The fire bell was sounded loud and long and the fire alarm whistle at the pump station was tied down for a 30-minute blow. The glad news was heralded throughout the entire city that Woodrow Wilson had been re-elected, the country saved and the "South Put in the Saddle."

At 6:45 this morning the Eagle pulled an extra edition containing the first authentic news in Bryan that the close and long struggle was at an end. It had been put forth to "give Bryan people the news while it was news."
